BE PREPARED FOR ANY EVENTUALITY WARNS SECRETARY WALLACE

The first assembly of the delegates attending the National 4-H Camp gave everyone an enthusiastic start for the week.

We delegates were glad to begin the assemblies in which we can have our own discussions and express our ideas. We hope that through these discussions and express our ideas. We hope that through these discussion meetings we can become more self-confident, more informed, and better prepared to help carry out the work and other activities of our club, community, and country.

Here are some of the high lights of Secretary Wallace's address:

"This is the seventh time that I have had the opportunity and pleasure of speaking to the 4-H boys and girls at the National Camp. The boys and girls of other years have been about like you, but the situation is very different. It is a situation of far-reaching importance and far-reaching challenge.

"Because of the last war there was a distortion of prices. Nobody knows what turn the present war will take. There is in other countries a reduction of the importation of farm products from the United States, but they may have famines in Europe and turn to us for help. There is an unusually large quantity of surplus farm products which can be fed to the European people if there is any way to get it to them. We Americans should feel proud to help them. The Extension Service may have a chance to serve, as well as the 4-H members. If necessity arises, girls can do canning to the fullest extent and the boys can carry on the field work on a much larger scale.

"We like to be prepared for any eventuality, whether it be war or peace with other nations. At this time we have here on the platform flags of 21 republics of the New World. The entire hemisphere is peace-believing.

"At birth the German child is about like any other child, but they have the instinct and tradition of looking on other nations as a trapper looks on fur-bearing animals.

"The Germans put their whole being into the service of their fatherland. We young American people do not take whole-hearted interest in our activities, and we are not so loyal as were our grandparents.

"I am glad that the Department of Agriculture is taking pride in aiding those things which will bring progress, and I hope that they will continue to do so.

"In case of national emergency I hope that you become a spark plug of dynamic enthusiasm. All the farmers must live up to their ideas if there are to be any rights in this world."

4-H'ERS SEARCH INTO RESEARCH

AT BELTSVILLE

The greatest thrill after the conferences and get-acquainted meetings came with the Beltsville tour. Since this was to be an expedition to an experiment and research station, all 4-H Club members looked forward to it with much interest. Everybody was thrilled to get into comfortable busses and ride in the fresh country air with a special police escort which gave our busses right-of-way.

We stopped first at the dairy barn where a motion picture was made of the delegates. Several officials at Beltsville were presented and took charge of the tour.

At the dairy farm we saw some very beautiful animals. Dairy cattle of different breeds were shown. Some high-producing cows with their records were seen. In connection with the dairy barn, we also visited the cheese house.

Next on the tour came the poultry division. Here it was explained how better turkeys were being bred for table use. Quality in eggs was made clear, and poultry improvement was explained.

Some beautiful beef animals were seen at the beef barn. Their line of breeding was explained by the manager, while everybody listened with much interest.

Different cross-breeds of swine were seen at the hog barn where the importance of cross-breeding in swine was emphasized. The 4-H members were also shown some Shropshire, Hampshire, and Asiatic sheep. Milk goats of different breeds were on display. The goats average 3 quarts of milk per day.

At the slaughterhouse we saw different cuts of meat and the quality was explained.

The tour went on, and everyone became more and more interested. We came to the barn where experiments are made with guinea pigs. This was very interesting. Some crosses between mice were also shown. At this place horses on different rations were shown, and the effect of different feeds was made clear.

All 4-H members seemed to enjoy the tour. The evident reason for this is that the tour pertained to farm animals and farm improvements.

AROUND THE CAMP WITH

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Have you seen those palm scrapbooks that the Puerto Rico girls are carrying? The books contain pictures of Puerto Rico and of the projects the girls have participated in such as cooking, sewing, and livestock. If you haven't seen one, it would be well worth your time.

Do you know that Staley Hahn of Maryland is the delegate living closest to Washington? He lives only 43 miles away. Of course, the Washington State delegates are the farthest from home.

Have you noticed what a good time everyone has playing games with Miss Ella Gardner? The Virginia reel proved to be the "real thing."

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities. It emphasizes that this is essential for ensuring transparency and accountability in the organization's operations.

2. The second part of the document outlines the various methods and techniques used to collect and analyze data. It includes a detailed description of the experimental procedures and the statistical analysis performed on the results.

3. The third part of the document presents the findings of the study. It shows that there is a significant correlation between the variables being studied, and that the results are consistent with the theoretical predictions.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the implications of the findings for future research and practice. It suggests that the results could be used to develop more effective strategies for improving organizational performance.

5. The fifth part of the document provides a conclusion and a summary of the key points. It reiterates the importance of accurate record-keeping and the need for ongoing research in this area.

It seems as if all the 4-H delegates have good healthy diaphragms because you should have heard them sing at the picnic at Beltsville and on the way home in the busses.

Have you noticed how well acquainted the 4-H'ers have become?

Have you listened to the war conversations among the delegates? They all seem to be alert to the situation and very much concerned.

Have you listened to some of the comments on Secretary Wallace's speech? His speech was appreciated for its straightforwardness and frankness. Secretary Wallace, you know, hails from the corn State of Iowa.

Don't we all like Mrs. Ferguson's playing? She can really swing it even though she does come from cool Colorado.

Did any or all of you hear the sweet music that came from the boys' tents last night? They can really play the harp and banjo.

Isn't everyone enjoying the good food at the cafeterias? Three cheers for Camp meals!

INVITATION

Come one--come all--to the CAMP CARNIVAL
On Saturday night at 8.
We've reserved ringside seats so you can view
The four-ring show especially planned for you.
The same attraction will run in every "ring"
So none of you will miss a thing.
Each "ring" will fly a different-colored flag
And for amusements will never lag.
There are games, and prizes, and surprises in store,
And last but not least - refreshments galore.
"Flirty Lulu" will be your admission at the door,
You'll find "Lu" in your mail box the day before.
The color, number, and letter will help you find your places,
So you'll all get set quickly and go through the paces.

BEHIND THE SCENES - It took a committee of thirty-four leaders under the inspirational guidance of Ella Gardner to get this carnival under way. They set up one of the rings to have a rehearsal tonight so there'll be no hitches on Saturday. Miss Gardner has thought of everything. She has even prepared mimeographed sheets giving full directions for all the games played, so you can repeat the party when you get back home. It's that good. These carnival sheets can be picked up in the rear of the Auditorium on Monday morning.

And while we're cheering, let's not forget a lusty hurrah for the camp accompanists, Miss Virginia Baker of the Biological Survey, who plays for the morning assemblies, and Mrs. C. W. Ferguson (yes, wife of the State Club Leader of Colorado) who plays for the evening sessions.

"I just know I'm having more fun than any of the delegates," commented Mrs. Ferguson, "because I am older than they are and have been looking forward to this for a much longer time."

Some changes have been made in the Camp program. In place of the speakers scheduled to speak in the assemblies of the last 3 camp days, Mrs. Frances Payne Bolton, Congresswoman from Ohio, will address the delegates on Monday, June 17; Hugh H. Clegg, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will speak on Tuesday; and at the last Camp assembly, the campers will be addressed by Assistant Secretary Grover Hill.

4-H Record reporters are hanging up somewhat of a "record" of their own by getting their copy in for mimeographing so promptly. Bravo for the 1940 4-H Record reporters! It looks like a record year for the Record.

Call for your copy of the 4-H RECORD at the Administration Tent every evening.

* * * * *

Of every five club members enrolled, two drop out at the end of first year, one more at end of second year, and only two continue for 3 years or longer.

* * * * *

More than 8 million boys and girls have received 4-H training since the work became Nation-wide in 1914 with the passage of the Smith-Lever Act.
